The Hasty Pudding Club.

FOR THE TOWNSMAN.

"Supper and milk for supper! While wife is mixing duff, I'll drop in a lee-lee more salt, She never puts in enough." The farmer added a portion As he thought would suit his taste, Then took his shining milkpail And left the kitchen in haste. "Mother's made mush for supper!" Said her oldest son in a huff. "I'll put in a little more salt, There never is quite enough." Then slyly the mischievous stripling, Not over fond of mush, Put in what he thought was needed And left the house with a rush. "Hasty pudding for supper! (I wish Dick wasn't so rough!) I wonder if this has been salted, It's never quite salt enough." So the farmer's only daughter, To help her mother along, Stirred in another spoonful Never dreaming of anything wrong. "My kettle of pudding is boiling, The batter's beginning to puff; I'll add a little more salt, I never use quite enough." The good wife seasoned the pudding And boiled it two hours or more, And dished it up for supper With bowls of milk for four. "What the dickens," began the farmer, As he tasted his favorite dish, "What on earth is the matter? Here's a pretty kettle of fish!" "I should say so!" growled hungry Rich- "This is too much for me!" [ard, Your fish could swim in this ocean, This mush is as salt as the sea." "The joke's on me," said the farmer, "I own it is rather rough; I put in a little more salt, Mother never used quite enough." "And I did the same," said his daughter, Glancing down at her cuff, "I put in another spoonful, While Mother was mixing duff." "I'll make an open confession," Said Dick with a sheepish grin, "I don't like salt very well But I put a little in." "You've got enough of it this time," Said the mother, flushing with pride; "I put in a double portion So you'd all be satisfied."

The farmer threw down his spoon And roared till the rafters rang; "It's the richest joke I've heard; A regular boomerang. There were too many cooks at the salt Too many cooks by three, [box, I'm positive one in the future Will be enough for me." "I move that hereafter," said Richard, "We put an embargo on salt, And let Mother settle the tariff, Then no one can find any fault. This stuff you call Hasty Pudding Will do very well to fat swine! The pork will be amply pickled Without any salt in the brine." "There's a kettle of Hasty Pudding That's boiling," said Farmer John, "In a national kitchen called Congress In the city of Washington. The cause of financial depression That is spreading distress through the North, May be found in that national kitchen, There are too many cooks in the broth." S. J. B.

Rev. William G. Poor of Keene, N. H., spoke at the Free Church last Sunday evening.

The last band concert at Ballardvale will be given next Friday evening instead of Wednesday.

A large attendance and a good time are anticipated at the Sons of Veterans picnic at Grand View one week from to-morrow. Members are now selling tickets.

Any wise man that has a head to cover will not miss Saturday's sale of Hats at Skillings, where for $1.19 he can buy hats that sold for $1.50 to $3.50. This includes every hat in the store.

Daniel Shannon has sold his estate at the corner of Summer Street and Pynchard Avenue, to E. J. Rowe, painter and decorator. Mr. Rowe, who has been living on Phillips Street, expects to take possession of his new home about Sept. 1.

Lincoln Lodge A. O. U. W. instead of having a separate picnic will unite with Burt Lodge of Haverhill in a grand excursion to Salisbury Beach, via the electric and steamboat Merrimack, on Wednesday, August 22. As an added attraction the Andover Band has been engaged to furnish music during the day.

Miss Mae Spofford of Meadville, Penn., a niece of Mrs. M. A. Davis of this town, died at Peabody, Mass., August 7. Many of the young people here will remember meeting her in Andover two years ago. She was a graduate of Meadville Conservatory, and for the past year had been in the Baptist choir of that city, her last solo on July 1st, was that hymn by Cary:

"One sweetly solemn thought, Come to me o'er and o'er."

C. M. Baldwin advertises this week to sell a Brewster wagon cheap.

Mrs. W. H. Coleman and daughter are at Nantucket for a two weeks stay.

Rev. N. H. Whittlesey of New Haven, Ct., will preach in the Free Church next Sunday morning.

F. I. Nute and family have moved from High street and taken up a residence in Melrose.

The concert to have been given by the Andover Band at Glen Forest, Wednesday evening, was postponed on account of the rain.

J. W. Barnard has purchased from a Lewiston, Me., physician a young family horse, which he considers a "nobby" one.

Mr. Charles Clark of the last graduating class of the Seminary, has accepted a call for one year's work at West Taunton, Mass.

Janitor Abbott Irving is engaged in fixing up and cleaning the different schoolhouses in town preparatory to the Fall term.

John Davey of Ballardvale has been appointed a registrar of voters by the Selectmen to take the place of Charles A. H. Fischer, who has left town.

Commander-in-chief Adams of the Grand Army was in town yesterday and dined with Peter D. Smith. They had just returned from the Hedding campground.

The personal property of the late P. B. Mahoney, West Parish, will be sold at public auction to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock by B. Rogers. It includes a horse wagon, hay and farming implements.

Real estate agent Rogers has leased the Hutchinson house at the corner of Pynchard Avenue and Bartlet street to Mrs. Geo. A. Nute of Natick, Mass. She will take possession about Sept. 1.

The residence on Chestnut street recently vacated by Mrs. Richards is being repaired by Hardy and Cole and has been leased by Mr. Batchelder, of the old and well known jewelry firm of Palmer & Batchelder, Boston.

The Gowing family, to which there are some Andover people connected, will hold its seventh annual reunion at the home of William Carter 2nd, in Wilmington, August 30. It will be in the form of a basket picnic.

A part of the old Abbott Village schoolhouse, it seems, is now the Red Spring pavilion, where a dance is advertised for every Friday evening, with music by the Lowell orchestra. To-night Miss Maud Hopkins, child cornetist from Lowell, is advertised to play.

J. W. Barnard is to make further additions and improvements to his stores on Post Office Avenue. Miss M. J. Howard, milliner and dressmaker, will vacate her store, which in turn will be taken by Mrs. C. A. Shattuck, florist. For Miss Howard, rooms will be fitted above her present quarters.

The unusually neat and pretty store of J. E. Whiting, jeweller and optician, has been made still more attractive this week by a complete set of handsome oak trimmed showcases from C. J. Raymond & Co., Boston. His large stock of jewelry, silverware, etc., is now shown to a better advantage than ever.

The twenty-sixth summer reunion of the First Mass. Heavy Artillery association was held Thursday, August 16, at Downer Landing. In the afternoon a trip was made to Fort Warren and assembly on the old camp ground where regiment was formed in 1861. Among the attendants was Geo. W. Chandler and J. M. Bean of towns.

Red Spring Lodge, I. O. G. T., is to have an open meeting at South Church vestry next Wednesday evening at 7.30. The Grand Chief Templar of Boston, Willard O. Wyllie will be present and make an address on the objects and work of the order. The public is invited and it is hoped a large number will attend.

Traffic on the street railway Tuesday afternoon was rather broken up, caused by broken wires in Andover square and by an accident to the engine at the power station. After the cars got to Andover street they just crept, the power in Lawrence, which was coming from the Haverhill wires, being entirely insufficient.

The Chinese pay their doctor only so long as he keeps them in health. They believe in preventing rather than curing disease. This is sound sense, and one of the strongest recommendations of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, a medicine which not only cures disease but prevents them.

Mrs. E. D. Ladd has very recently returned from a several weeks vacation in Fall River.

The Representative "Structure" Grows Larger.

Editor of Townsman: Although your list of candidates for representative in last week's issue was very good, it is not "Osgood" as it would be if you add the name of one "Poor" (J. C.) man more to it. It will be "So good" there will not be a "Ray" (Rea) of hope for the others. It may bring War (ren) into camp, and the Green (e) eyed monster may do some fine work, and it has been suggested that the whole structure be strengthened by inserting a Car (ney) knee to brace with, but there is none that can be used, therefore we will all become "Poor" for the benefit of the district. x Lineman's Death at Lawrence.

A lineman named Benjamin Mooney employed by the Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill street railway, met with a terrible death at Lawrence Monday evening at the corner of Essex and Newbury streets. Mooney was at work on the wires from the wagon containing the ladder and box arrangement. He was engaged near the iron post on the corner when suddenly he gave a shout and fell to the sidewalk, striking on the back of his head. He died in a few minutes. Dr. Howe thought it was the result of an electric shock, while others claimed it was an accidental fall.

Weed them Out.

Under the above heading the Traveller of Thursday says the following very sensible words:

A sure Republican year always brings out a large crop of candidates, many of whom are totally unfit.

This year is no exception to the rule.
Every man with an ambition to serve his country as a public official naturally believes in his ability to do so satisfactorily, at least to himself.

It is vital to permanent success that Republicans should take a live personal interest in the selection of good men as candidates.

It is not simply who can possibly be elected, but who can best serve the people after he is elected.

An intense longing for office on the part of the candidate is not to be taken as even prima facie evidence of fitness.
The fact that a man has been defeated in previous contests should not of itself constitute the slightest claim to a second nomination.

This is not a year in which to indulge in "vindicating" anybody.

Because a man has acquired, inherited, or "married" money, is no reason why he should be nominated for any office whatever.

The only question should be as to the honesty of the man and his ability to serve the public acceptably.

Republicans should carefully scrutinize the record and qualification of every man who is announced as a candidate.

The perpetuity of Republican rule, when once established, depends almost wholly upon the wisdom and honesty of those who vote in the caucus.

If a man is to neglect either, he would be wiser to give his whole attention to the caucus and absent himself from the election.

Every American citizen should, however, attend both.

While we want to heartily endorse most of the above, we must take exception to the sentence next to the last.
Important as is the command for every voter to attend the caucus, it is vastly more important that he should go to the polls, and vote against the unfit candidate, whatever his politics.

It is very evident that this is a Republican year. The party in power has demonstrated its utter unfitness as a governing party, and all signs point to its complete overthrow. But while the great mass of America's voting people are standing over the grave of the apparently dead democracy, the utmost care should be taken lest a misstep should cast our other greater and grander party into the same grave.

The questions of the hour demand a greater loyalty, wisdom and patriotism than ever before, and the man who rises above the play of "party interest" and "political expediency" will be the man who will deserve, and ere many years receive, the honorable and high places in our country's government, for which he is fitted.

And all this seems even now to be at hand. Will the broad intelligence that characterized the republicanism of Lincoln and of Garfield pervade their party to-day, or will the narrow, selfish interest of the too evident present day cheap politics be the death of America's grandest party, as it has been of her oldest?

The answer is found in the action of every voter exercising his right and duty in the choice of every public officer from the humblest to the highest.
We say choose men of right principle, and right principles will prevail.

More Money for Roads.

It is understood that the appropriation for highways made at the last March meeting is almost, if not quite, exhausted. While the amount appropriated was smaller than usual, it was still further decreased by the fact that quite a sum was needed to pay last year's bills. Though this explains in a measure the present lack of funds, it is not the object of this writing.

If the money is gone, there is "no visible means of support" for six or eight horses now owned by the town.
These horses must be supported or sold, and while there are some who would gladly advise the latter, we believe it is economy to keep them, if they can be kept busy.

There are yet two months of good road working weather, and there is a piece of road between the Post Office and the foot of Andover hill (the meanest road in Andover) that would just use up that time and a proper sum of money to pay the bills.

Under such circumstances wouldn't it be well to raise some more money to use on this road, and keep our teams and men at work until the cold weather?
We are inclined to think it would.

Editorial Cinders.

Some more play with words by a correspondent this week in relation to the representative contest. Meanwhile, the extract in another place from the Traveller would be a good thing for the voters to consider in making a choice.

We see that an early cricket game for our Andover eleven is "Andover via Lowell." From where?

The New Flint Building.

The batters have been put up for the new Flint building in Elm Square, the contract having been secured by Driscoll & O'Brien, a Lawrence firm of masons, who were the lowest bidders. Their bid was $24,997, while the two local contractors were much higher. They were as follows: Hardy & Cole $31,535; C. B.
Mason $31,975. D. J. Mahoney of Lawrence is doing the excavating and begun work yesterday morning. It is understood that Flanders of Lawrence does the wood work for the contractors.

Police Court.

Judge Poor held a police court session Wednesday. Two West Parish youths were brought in by officer Moor, charged with stealing fruit from the premises of Rufus Bailey. They were found guilty and fined $5 each, which was paid. A little more such punishment ought to end this fruit theiving business.

The two lots of beer, seized at Haggetts Pond some time ago, were condemned and ordered turned over to the state.
One lot contained 84 gallons and the other 36 gallons.

A New Organization.

The following from the Lynn Item will please the friends and acquaintances of the Andover parties connected with it.

The W. B. Excursion Club was organized on board the steamer Boston, of the Yarmouth line, by a returning party of excursionists, last Saturday morning, before landing from a most enjoyable trip through Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. The party left Boston the week previous on one of the popular excusions of this line to St. John, taking in side trips that enabled them to see nearly all points of interest.

One trip to be remembered was up the St. John river to Fredericton. The scenery up this river is wild and rugged, and is well named the Rhine of America.
From Fredericton to St. John, the natives will hardly forget for some time the trip from Andover, with their red caps. At each stopping place on the run the greeting offered up by them to the few people on the wharfs was such as to bring out the whole population of the town.

Chase, who had charge of the refreshments, was much grieved on opening his lambert to find some one had been before him and swiped the entire job lot.
He thought of engaging the local police to investigate the case. The whole trip from beginning to end, was one of pleasure and merry-making, and was voted a great success.

The organization, as perfected before leaving the steamer in Boston, was for the purpose of taking in further points of interest in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick another year, especially another trip up the St. John river with the jovial captain of steamer Olivette.

The following officers and committees were elected:—Charles S. Sanborn, of Lynn, President; Allen M. Gosseline, of Andover, Secretary; William P. Story, of Salem, Treasurer; and Steward; C. F.
Thompson, James Grant, of Brockton, John A. Fraser, and H. F. Chase, of Andover, a committee to draw up by-laws to govern the club on its next trip.

Essex County Grand Army.

Manchester is expecting a large gathering of Grand Army veterans on Sept. 5, when the Essex county G. A. R. parade takes place in that place. Post 67 is making a great effort to entertain handsomer the visitors who will be present from the twenty-four posts in the county. The route of the parade will be short but the citizens are preparing to decorate their houses, and stores generally. Col. B. F. Cook, mayor of Gloucester, is to be chief marshal and Joseph F.
Pitman, of the Salem post, chief of the second division. Dinner will probably be served in a large tent on the village green, the price to comrades is 50 cents each. The round trip ticket from Lawrence and Methuen will cost one dollar.
Gov. Greenhalge, Senator Lodge and Congressman Stevens will be among the invited guests.

Ripans Tabules cure nausea.

August Weddings.

BARNARD—PARADISE.

At the Seminary Chapel, Wednesday evening, there assembled a large number of friends of the contracting parties, to witness the marriage of Mabel, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T.
Paradise, formerly of Boston, to Henry Warren Barnard of town.

The church was prettily decorated with potted plants, golden rod, wild flowers, etc., by florist Geo. Piddington. Organist Miss Lucia Merrill, before the ceremony rendered in an excellent manner,
"Jensen's Bridal Song," "Aria from Handel," "Moreau De L'opera from La Sem-iramede," "Elevation E. Batiste." Wagner's Bridal Song from Lohengrin ushered in the bridal party—the groom and best man, Mr. Everett Berry of Cambridge, taking their station. The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, preceded by the maid of honor Miss Marion Gay, of Boston, and six ushers.

The ceremony was beautifully and impressively performed by Prof. J. Wesley Churchill of the Andover Theological Seminary and the Very Rev. Frank Illey Paradise, dean of Christ Church Cathedral, New Orleans, a brother of the bride.

The bride was attired in an embroidered oriental crepe made over white satin, cut on train, with veil and carrying a bouquet of bride's roses and a white prayer book. The maid of honor was beautifully gowned in white Swiss silk mull and carried Catherine Mermet roses.
At the conclusion of the church ceremony a reception was given at the Mansion House. The grounds and piazza of which were profusely decorated with scores of Japanese lanterns. Tanner of Haverhill catered in his usual satisfactory manner.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnard after a prolonged trip to the Isle of Shoals will be at home at the Barnard residence on High St.

The ushers were Mr. Chas. W. Paradise, brother of the bride, Dr. Robert W.
Hastings of Boston, Messrs. John V. Holt, Fred P. Berry, F. Homer Foster, and Charles Bodwell of town.

The wedding presents were many and made a handsome display. Among them was a present of $500, the gift of Mr. Barnard's father.

GILMAN—WELD.

Another pretty but quiet wedding occurred Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Weld, when her daughter, Myra Josephine, was united in marriage to Charles F. Gilman of Wakefield. Rev. J. C. Evans of Ballardvale performed the ceremony, which took place in the presence of relatives and a few intimate friends.

The bride wore a handsome gown of cream cashmere trimmed with silk, and carried a bunch of bride's roses. A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony, and then Mr. and Mr. Gilman mounted their bicycles and started for a trip to Lake Winnepesaukee. They were the recipients of many pretty wedding presents and the hearty congratulations of many friends. They will reside on Albion street, Wakefield, where Mr. Gilman is a well known druggist.

Obituary.

Mrs. Mary Winning died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Daniel Harrington, in West Parish, Tuesday, at the age of 84 years. She was an old and well known resident, and respected by all who knew her. The funeral services occurred yesterday afternoon and interment was in the West church cemetery.

ABBY HAILE ABBOTT.

The death of Mrs. Abby Haile Abbott, widow of the late Dea. Albert Abbott, at her home on the Hill last Saturday evening, closed a residence covering a period of about 55 years in this town. She was born June 8, 1816, and her younger days from infancy were spent in Ashburnham, Mass. She entered Abbot Academy, but left that institution in 1836 to marry Dea.
Albert Abbott. Since that time she has resided here, honored and respected by all. At the time of her death she was a vice-president of the Abbot Alumnae Association and very much interested in its welfare.

Funeral services were conducted at the house Wednesday afternoon by Prof. E.
C. Smythe and the hymns "Lead Kindly Light" and "Abide with Me," were rendered impressively by Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert, Mrs. William Jackson and Colver J. Stone. The remains were buried in the family lot in Spring Grove cemetery.
A more extended and deserved tribute to her long, earnest and useful life in this town will appear in these columns next week.

Frye Village.

Miss Helen W. Battles is visiting in Plymouth.

Miss Nellie Holmes, of Ballardvale, is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bell.
Mrs. John Hill is with her daughter,

The Bailey-Bailey Reunion.

At Bailey's Grove, Haggetts Pond, yesterday, was held the second annual gathering of the Bailey-Bailey family association. There was a large attendance and the pleasant and interesting exercises opened at 10.30 with prayer by Rev. Vincent Moses of West Newbury, after which there was music by the Nichols Home Orchestra of Haverhill, and an address of welcome the president of the Association, John A. Bailey of Lowell, which was followed by the reports of the secretary, John T. Bailey of Somerville, and of treasurer James R. Bailey of Lawrence. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Rev. Augustus F.
Bailey of Bradford; vice-presidents, H.
R. Bailey, Esq., of Cambridge, and J. W.
Bailey of Somerville; secretary, John T.
Bailey of Somerville; Treasurer, James R. Bailey of Lawrence. Other business and singing closed the morning exercises and a basket lunch was then enjoyed.

The afternoon session began at 1.30, with music by the orchestra, followed by an original poem, an original hymn by Rev.
A. F. Bailey, recitation by Miss Pearl Merrill of Salem, N. H., address by vice-president Rev. A. F. Bailey, and remarks by the president of the day, Hollis R.
Bailey, and by J. Warren Bailey. The exercises closed with the singing of Auld Lang Syne. Hollis R. Bailey, Esq., of Cambridge, president of the day, showed a genealogical chart which with some of the remarks, brought to light many interesting facts about the family history.
The first settlers were Richard and James Bailey, who settled in Rowley in 1635, and 1640, and John Bailey of Newbury, from whom most of the family in this section descended. Samuel Bailey, Jr., the direct ancestor of James R. Bailey, of Lawrence, was killed in the battle of Bunker hill to which he walked from the old homestead in West Parish, which is now the property of C. I. Hood of Lowell.
The farm was in the family for several generations. That part of Andover was first settled by the Baileys, who secured it direct from the Indians.

Cricket.

The Andover team played good cricket last Saturday afternoon and the result was the Merrimacks of Lawrence, a club Andover likes very much to defeat, were taken into camp to the tune of 62 to 27.
Pearson led the Andover's in batting with Bruce and Haddon a close second.
Saunders gave a great exhibition of bowling, taking 7 wickets for 10 runs. Thompson bowled finely for the visitors. The score:

morrow and play a return game with the Zingaris of that city. The following team has been chosen: Capt. Haddon, Bruce, Saunders, Ripley, McGlynn, Tinker, Boyle, Coates, Greig, Sullivan. Subs Sterling and Porter.

On Saturday, Sept. 1, there will be a benefit match for ex-captain Bruce, on the local grounds between the home team and the Lowells.

The second team will play the Merrimack second eleven to-morrow afternoon here, with the following men: Sterling, Callum, Young, Connolly, Fielding, H.
Saunders, Harris, Dick, Barrett, Wrigley and Higginbotham.

Wedding.

LOVEJOY—MOODY.

It was a wedding of more than usual interest that occurred at the home of Mr. Almon Moody last Wednesday evening when Miss Clara E. Moody was united in marriage to Mr. S. Arthur Lovejoy, of West Andover. The marriage service, which was that of the Methodist Episcopal church, was performed by the Rev. Mr. Hodgdon of this place in the presence of relatives from Chelsea, Melrose, Lowell, Methuen, Everett and Spencer. The bride was becomingly attired in a gown of white silk trimmed with white silk trimmings and carried a bunch of roses. The house was very tastefully and beautifully decorated, the arrangement of the cut flowers being especially pleasing. Following the ceremony a reception was held at which a dainty wedding feast was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Lovejoy left the house to go to their new home in West Andover, carrying with them the best wishes and kind regards of friends for a happy and prosperous life, accompanied also with the customary showers of rice and old shoes.

The newly wedded couple were the recipients of a large number of valuable and beautiful gifts, which were an evidence of the love and esteem of numerous friends. They will be pleased to receive their friends after Sept. 15, at their home in West Andover.

THEORIES ABOUT BALDNESS.

Why Does the Hair Fall Out on the Top of the Head and Not Elsewhere?

A question that often arises and is seldom answered twice in the same way is as to why the hair falls out on the top of the head and not at the back and on the sides. The old fashioned theory is that baldness occurs within the lines marked by a man's hat, and as nobody has ever offered conclusive proof to the contrary that explanation may be the correct one.

The case was stated the other day to two very intelligent barbers. One of them thought that the reason why baldness occurred at the top of the head was that the brain came closest to the surface there, and this being an age in which many brains are kept going at high tension the abnormal amount of blood thus carried to the cranium produced a kind of fever in the upper scalp. Fevers, as is well known, often result in the falling out of the hair.

The second barber gave variety to the discussion by enlarging upon the notion that he had formed from the observation and reflection of many years.

"You will notice," said he, "that the first hair a baby has comes in on the top of the head and falls out before the child is many weeks old. The hair that comes to stay grows thicker and stronger on the sides and at the back, and I have an idea that the growth on the top of the head is always the weakest from infancy on to old age."

"But how do you account for the fact that women do not grow bald as men do?" queried a skeptical listener.

"Account for it? I don't have to account for it," replied the ready witted second barber. "It isn't so. Why, I used to work in an establishment where they had nine chairs in the men's department and 11 in the women's, and I want to tell you that I learned some things there that the average man and the average barber, too, for that matter, doesn't know. If you could appreciate as I do the number of women who have false hair so artistically arranged that nobody can tell it from their own natural tresses, you wouldn't ask why men grow bald and the other sex doesn't."

Hairdressers have their pet theories on this subject as well as barbers, and some of them are very plausible. But if you should ask a doctor who was not ashamed to confess his ignorance the chances are that he would tell you he didn't know much about it.—Washington Star.

Blood Stains.

To the present day the superstition is rife that blood stains cannot be washed out. During the French revolution 80 priests were massacred in the Carmelite chapel at Paris, and the stains, so called, of their blood are pointed out today.

Sir Walter Scott, in his "Tales of a Grandfather," declares that the blood stains of David Rizzio, the Italian private secretary of Mary, queen of Scots, who was stabbed at Holyrood palace by certain Protestant leaders of her court, aided by her husband, Darnley, are still to be seen.

In Lancashire the natives show a stone called the "bloody stone," which was so marked to show heaven's displeasure at some of Cromwell's soldiers' atrocities at Galloway Croft. In "Macbeth," act 5, scene 1, Shakespeare alludes to the idea, "Yet here's a spot."

The truth is blood cannot be easily expunged. In the first place, if that of a murdered person, it is not attempted. In the next place, blood contains oxide of iron, which sinks deep into the fiber of wood and proves indelible to ordinary washing. Thus it is true that stones of a porous nature and wood, not of the hardest kind are susceptible to the stain of blood produced by the oxide of iron which the blood contains. But the blood of a pig is as good as that of a murdered man.—Pearson's Weekly.

A Shower of Wheat.

In the year 1696 or thereabouts it was a report in Bristol and thereabouts that it rained wheat about this Town and six or seven miles round, and many believed it. One Mr. Cole being curious to find out the truth of the old phenomenon procured several barrels of it, and upon diligent examination of them with magnifying Glasses, judged from the Taste, Figure, Size and Smell that they were seeds of Ivy berries, driven by a strong Wind from the Holes and Chinks of Houses, Churches and other Buildings, where Starlings and other Birds had laid or dropped them, but if so it's strange that they should fall in so great quantities in so many Places.—Cox's "Magna Britannia."

A Thief Rewarded.

A thief in the act of breaking into a safe was greatly astonished on looking up to see a gentleman quietly watching his proceedings. He tried to escape, but the gentleman stopped him.

"Go on, my friend," he said. "I am greatly interested in your work."

"How is that?" inquired the astonished thief.

"Because I have lost the key to this safe. If you can open it, you shall be well rewarded for your trouble."—Arequin.

Curious.

A domestic, newly engaged, presented to his master one morning a pair of boots the leg of one of which was much longer than the other. "How comes it that these boots are not the same length?" "I really don't know, sir, but what bothers me the most is that the pair down stairs are in the same fix."—Boston Woman's Journal.

Du Maurier's Women.

ANTIQUITY OF FISHING.

How the Fair Cleopatra Fooled Antony With a Salt Fish.

The art of angling no doubt had its origin in man's necessities. The earliest record of mankind makes reference to the taking of fish for food. There are frequent allusions to it in the Bible. Job, in the oldest book of all, says: "Canst thou draw out a leviathan with a hook, or his tongue with a cord which thou lettest down? Canst thou put a hook in his nose?" Homer, in the "Iliad," speaks of fishing in these lines: As bearing death in the fallacious bait, From the bent angle sinks the leaden weight.

And it is recorded in the Odyssey: As when the angler, his long rod in hand, On a projecting rock assumes his stand, Casts to the fiery fry the baited snare, Then flings the wriggling captive in the air.

The Romans, Greeks and other races at early days around the Mediterranean practiced the art of angling. Plutarch tells of a prank played by the fair Egyptian, Cleopatra, while out fishing with Antony. "They waged on their angling, and her divers did hang a salt fish on his hook, which he with favor drew up."

The ruined walls of Herculaneum and Pompeii abound in frescoes of fishermen. All along the track of history are found traces of this gentle recreation, showing the gradual improvement from the hook of bone and rude equipment of the cave man to the elegant accessories and belongings of the modern angler.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

"FRENCH AS SHE IS SPOKE."

Mr. Grossmith's Humorous Skit Is but Little Exaggerated.

In one of his entertainments Mr. George Grossmith, the English comedian, extracts considerable fun from "French as she is spoke" by the school-boy. In a clever skit on the French play that forms part of the inevitable prize day programme all the dialogue is of the conventional "first French course" order—viz., "Have you seen the garden of my wife's uncle?" "No, but I have found the pencil of my father's sister."

I was reminded of this the other day when calling on a friend whose three small nieces had just arrived from South America. The children's native tongue was Spanish, but evidently a "first English course" had been used to prepare them for their visit to this country, and their quaint high flown phrases were a constant source of mirth to the household. They invariably prefaced each sentence with, "It is that."

"Juanita, why haven't you brushed your hair?" said my friend to the dark eyed eldest girl of about 6. "It is that I failed to discover my brush," was the stately reply. At that moment the baby up stairs set up a piercing yell, whereupon the second child, with hand upraised, remarked, with infinite solemnity, "Hark, the infant wails!"—New York Journal.

ORCHARD IRRIGATION.

A Modification of a Foreign Subirrigation Device That Has Proved Satisfactory.

In many locations and where the soil is very porous the ill effects from lack of moisture at the roots of trees, especially fruit trees, is apparent. Sometimes the tree cannot get moisture enough for the perfection of its fruit, and a large share of the half grown specimens drop to the ground, while those remaining on the tree fail to swell out to the size they would have obtained under more favorable circumstances.
The few bucketfuls of water thrown against the body of the tree or sprinkled on the ground around it, with which growers sometimes try to offset the lack of rain, seldom do much good and often actually prove harmful. The water wets the surface and either packs it or simply stimulates the growth of grass and weeds under the trees, but does not reach the roots. To overcome every difficulty and secure the best effect of liquid applications to especially choice trees or shrubs in a dry time a modification of a device for subirrigation used in Europe is suggested in American Gardener.

Fig. 1 shows the perforated tile which is employed in the manner suggested in Fig. 2. Tiles of this kind are made in different sizes, about 12 to 18 inches long and of various widths. From five to ten of them are buried in the ground around a tree of fair size, and the liquid manure, soapuds or clear water, whatever the case may be, are poured into them and go where they will do the most good. In place of these tiles the authority quoted substitutes with success boxes 3 or 4 inches square and 15 inches long, with holes bored through their sides at the lower half.
They answer the purpose just as well.

Whether resorting to these and other means of irrigation or not, there is need of a good water cart or barrel on wheels on every rural home. The washing ends and other waste liquids are too valuable as fertilizers to be wasted and too dangerous to be thrown upon and left to befoul the ground in the immediate vicinity of the house. Their employment for subirrigating trees or vegetables puts them to good use and removes chances of harm. Whenever we irrigate, however, we should do it thoroughly. A light rain only stimulates us to greater efforts, for with its help it is all the easier to reach the roots with our applications and does the work thoroughly.

A Word About Heliotropes.

No special season of the year can claim the heliotrope. It will be fair with bloom at any time for which it may be treated. In winter its deep purple, light blue or lavender flowers will be produced freely on any warm, sunny window sill, and if the plants are bedded in a warm, rich spot outdoors in summer their growth will be luxuriant and the flower trusses large and beautifully colored. American Agriculturist says that if the plants used for summer bedding seem likely to be too large for the space which can be given them for winter blooming, cuttings started in midsummer will form good winter bloomers. Or a few old plants may be cut back early in fall, lifted and given special care to make them presentable and ready for continuous winter bloom.
As soon as new growth and buds start, liquid manure given once a week will be of much benefit. The temperature in which heliotropes are grown should not fall below 45 degrees at night, and from 60 to 65 degrees is a good average for the day. Heliotropes will not endure the slightest touch of frost.

Things Told by the Florists.
Despite the efforts of orchid growers these plants have not attracted the popular mind in this country, and it can hardly be expected that any of the orchids can ever attain to any such degree of popularity as attaches to the chrysanthemum and carnation.

Climbing niphotes must rank as our very best white climber under glass. It is always good, and remarkably free blooming and a wonderfully vigorous grower.

Souvenir de S. A. Prince is one of the finest white roses ever introduced, very free growing and flowering, and also one of our sweetest scented roses. This variety is synonymous with the Queen and originated in the same manner.

Mine Hoste is a pale yellow of really first class quality.

The raising of seedling chrysanthemums is assuming alarming proportions.
The number of novelties offered each season is bewildering.

That valuable Brazilian orchid, Cattleya labiata, first appeared in England 75 years ago.

Of the plants sold the demand in the northern and eastern states is greatest for geraniums, coleas, roses, pansies, verbenas, heliotropes, carnations, chrysanthemums, palms, ferns and fuchsias, nearly in the order named.

In the south the demand is for roses, chrysanthemums, geraniums, coleas, palms and ferns.

California shows the demand to be the largest for roses, carnations, chrysanthemums, geraniums, palms and pansies.

CAUSE AND EFFECT.

No wonder that the sea is sad,
Or that the ocean roars;
The love tales they hear told and told
Must be such awful bores.
From yachts and boats the story floats,
All through the summer weather;
From stream and strand, where hand in hand,
Walk man and maid together.
The lovers always like damp spots Wherein their vows to make.
They mostly choose some brookside or Malaria giving lake.

The sweet, shy summer budlets come;
Till numbers would appal.
Perhaps each girl hears one youth rave—
The waters hear them all!

Roar on, O sea! Laugh on, O stream!
And morn'ring brooklet bubble,
But don't you take to telling tales,
Or you'll make lots of trouble.

PERILS OF BULL FIGHTING.

It is an Easy Matter For Toreros to Meet a Violent Death.

One is accustomed to hear bull fighting denounced as both cruel and cowardly—cruel because of the suffering it inflicts upon animals, cowardly because the risk run by the bullfighter is infinitesimal. The first charge is absolutely true, so far at least as concerns the unfortunate horses. The second is equally false, as the tragic death of Espadero should serve to teach the amateur critics who for the most part have never seen the spectacle they denounce in such unqualified terms.

If the Spaniards would only revive the original form of the sport they borrowed from the Moors—that is to say, the riding, not of wretched cab horses, only fit for the knacker and mounted by professional pleaders, but of valuable horses, with "owners up," who would, of course, exercise their skill in trying to save their mounts—there would be little to be said against bull fighting on the score of cruelty.

As to the current sneers at the cowardice of the bullfighters, they are the outcome of sheer ignorance. One has but to witness the entry into the ring of a fresh caught Andalusian bull twice the size and weight of a lion, fully as fierce and almost as active to understand that every man in the ring carries his life in his hand, and that a momentary loss of nerve, of judgment or of footing will probably mean instant death.

That terrible fighting "spear"—a Spaniard never talks of a bull's "horn" any more than an Englishman of a fox's "tail"—would make short work of any man who had not devoted the flower of his age to the study of the most perilous of all forms of sport. Those who have seen such daring and accomplished toreros as Lagartijo or Frascuelo take the cloak from the hand of a subordinate and play with the infuriated beast as a child might with a kitten, knowing all the time that the slightest mistake would be fatal, cannot, if they speak the truth, refuse to admit that the combination of skill and courage is unparalleled. The perils of the plaza redeem the sport from the charge of cowardice, though not, as it is at present conducted, from that of cruelty.—

Size of a Whale's Throat.

One of the favorite arguments of the skeptics is that the Biblical story of Jonah and the whale cannot be true, simply because the books on natural history say that such animals have very small throats. Appleton's American Cyclopedia says, "The food of whales consists only of the smallest of the marine mollusca, a herring being the largest fish they can swallow." Chambers' Encyclopedia, in the article "Whale," says:
"The gullet of whales is very narrow.
It is said not to be more than 1½ inches in diameter even in a large whale, so that only very small animals can pass through it." In McMillan's book on the curiosities of the ocean, "The Sea and Its Denizens," chapter 3, page 60, I find the following: "That the story of Jonah and the whale cannot be refuted simply because such animals have, as a rule, very small gullets or throats may be inferred from the fact that there are certain species of the sperm whale now living that can swallow an object 2 feet in diameter. I myself was present at Lamarck when a buoy as large as a 12 gallon water cask, and greater in diameter than the chest and shoulders of a 200 pound man, was taken from the belly of a whale which was not more than two-thirds grown."—St. Louis

A Dog With Eyeglasses.

Pedestrians on Market street the other morning jostled each other to see a novel sight. A huge dog, with a sleek drab skin and a generally contented look, plodded along the thoroughfare wearing spectacles of large size astride his shapely nose. The dog was not at all inconvenienced seemingly, and apparently was not aware that he was doing anything out of the ordinary, as he critically surveyed the public through the spectacle glasses. The spectacles were much too large for any human being, and probably were made with glasses without magnifying power, at the order of some waggish owner.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Rev. John Jasper of Richmond, the most noted of all slave preachers, is now over 80 years old and believes as firmly as he did in 1878, when his famous sermon was preached, that "the sun do move." He recently gave an outline of that celebrated discourse, which, he says, was composed in order to set at rest some doubts which had arisen in the mind of a young member of his flock.

A PROLIFIC ROSE.

It is a Genuine Favorite, and Its Name is Mrs. W. C. Whitney.

That beautiful rose, Mrs. W. C. Whitney, was raised from seed by Mr. John N. May, the well known rosarian of Summit, N. J. It was shown at the World's Columbian exposition, and was considered the finest new rose there, being awarded a medal. Mr. May, in describing this rose for American Garden-

MRS. W. C. WHITNEY ROSE.

ing, says that it is a cross between Souvenir d'un Ami and American Beauty, the first named being the seed bearing parent. It partakes of the character of both its parents—namely, the very free blooming qualities of Souvenir d'un Ami, combined with the handsome foliage of both that variety and that of American Beauty and possesses a very agreeable and at the same time a distinct fragrance from any other known rose, that of the old Centifolia rose predominating, but many experts claim it also exhales a decided combination of lemon verbenas and heliotrope, which, when the flowers are well developed, is certainly very perceptible.

In color it is a very beautiful rose pink, and the bloom, when fully developed and grown under the best conditions, attains a large size. It is withal one of the most prolific roses ever introduced. For the past three seasons a careful record of the number of blooms produced shows that it averages 28 per cent more flowers than Bon Silene grown under the same treatment. The flowers last in a good condition on the plant for a long time and will not drop their petals even when quite old. Very many of the flowers have been cut with stems 2 feet long. These qualities all combined in one variety make it at once one of the most desirable for greenhouse forcing and a general favorite with all who see it.

Peaches New and Old.

Is any of the new peaches more hardy than the old sorts? was one of the questions asked at the meeting of the Western New York Horticultural society. The opinion seemed to be universally in the negative. Hill's Chile was reported to be exceedingly hardy and always bears more or less fruit. Alexander, of the Waterloo type, is hardy and yields nearly every year. Elberta is one of the hardiest varieties and well worthy of planting. This variety, in reply to a question, is not particularly troubled with curled leaf. The Crosby yields every year and has yielded a fair crop the summer after a winter when the thermometer dropped to 28 degrees.
Its greatest fault is overbearing; hence it must be thinned. It ripens about the same time as Old Mixon, just after the Early Crawford. Stevens' Rare Rippe was reported as hardy, inferior in color, blotches and mildews and considered an unprofitable variety to plant. Bear's Smock was said to be hardy, of fine quality, white, not especially liable to mildew; one of the finest of the late varieties. S. D. Willard of Geneva, one of the most extensive growers of western New York, regards Stevens' Rare Rippe as one of the best varieties for that section, and for western New York Hill's Chile was said to be one of the best varieties for canning. The Smock will thrive on a sandy soil.

Treatment of Shrubberies.

Much depends on the condition of the shrubbery in determining whether the ground shall or shall not be dug. Many old shrubberies, especially where trees overhang, are so crowded that the soil has become one mass of roots. There is no use whatever in such cases in attempting to dig in the leaves that lie on the surface, and there is no other course but to let them lie and decay in due time or cover them over with a coating of soil. Then there is a plan of annually clearing out all the leaves, carting them away to some out of the way place to decay, bringing back in their place the leafage of the preceding year, which,
with other refuse, has become thoroughly rotted and is now in admirable condition to spread over the surface as a mulch or dressing.

Floral Notes.

The Marguerite carnations are particularly desirable on account of being summer and autumn bloomers.

The object of pruning roses is to keep up a supply of new wood, since the flowers are borne only on the wood of current season's growth.

Vick's Caprice is a marvel among roses, with its bright pink color, interspersed and blended with beautiful shades of pure white.

The white single dahlias are excellent for cut flowers.

Although pæonias will "last forever" in the same place without transplanting, the best results are obtained by moving them to fresh ground every few years.

Florists get the enormous blossoms of chrysanthemums we see with them in November by disabudding—that is, picking off all of the buds except one to a shoot, doing this as soon as the buds can be discerned. And this same sort of disabudding is now being practiced by the florists in the case of roses and carnations under glass.

Only the Scars Remain.

"Among the many testimonials which I see in regard to certain medicines performing cures, cleansing the blood, etc.," writes HENRY HUDSON, of the James Smith impress me more than my own case. Twenty years ago, at the age of 18 years, I had swellings come on my legs, which broke and became running sores.

Our family physician could do me no good, and it was feared that the bones would be affected. At last, my good old mother urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I took three bottles, the sores healed, and I have not been troubled since. Only the scars remain, and the memory of the past, to reminde me of the good Ayer's Sarsaparilla has done me." I now weigh two hundred and twenty pounds, and am in the best of health. I have been on the road for the past twelve years, have noticed Ayer's Sarsaparilla advertised in all parts of the United States, and always take pleasure in telling what good it did for me."

FORCED TO RECEDE.

House Accepted the Ultimatum of "Senate Bill or Nothing."

Some Separate Bills Passed the House, but Gorman Says They Will Be Soon Pigeon-Holed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The long struggle over the tariff bill came to a close at 8 o'clock last evening, when the house, by a vote of 182 to 103, decided to discharge the house conference from further consideration of the bill, recede from its opposition to the 634 senate amendments and agree to the same.

Chairman Wilson's speech in the caucus was simply explanatory, telling of the difficulties and embarrassments which the house conference encountered from the outset. He informed the house that he and his associates had finally become convinced that it was the senate bill or nothing. Therefore, he and his associates, with Speaker Crisp and other leaders, had reluctantly accepted the situation.

There was a spirited discussion on the question of immediately bringing forward a proposition as soon as the tariff bill was disposed of to pass bills to put sugar, coal and iron ore on the free list. The sentiment of those present was overwhelmingly in favor of such a course and it was almost immediately adopted.

Efforts were made by several members in the caucus to ascertain the attitude of President Cleveland, and whether he would sign the measure, but no one present, not even Chairman Wilson, was authorized to say what course the president would take in the matter. His friends in the house, however, are confident that he will sign the bill.

One of the conditions that induced him to consent to the senate bill was that the house should immediately pass a bill for free coal and iron ore. This is what he has been contending for from the beginning. He did not approve of the free sugar proposition. He wanted the revenue that would be derived from this article.

The Final Struggle.
It was a complete victory for the senate. The result grew directly out of the sensational course of events at the senate end of the Capitol precipitated by Senator Hill on Friday. Up to that time the house conference had stood firm against the senate amendments, especially on coal, iron ore and sugar, and the temper and voice of the house were for war to the end. But the indications that the Democrats of the senate might be unable to longer hold a majority of the votes in line for even the senate bill, and that the bill was in terrible jeopardy, forced the house Democrats to immediate action.

The Democratic conferees of the house at last admitted that they were beaten and that another vote could not be risked in the senate; that it must be either the senate bill or no bill.

The whole question was precipitated at the caucus held just before the house convened yesterday, at which, after a thorough review of the situation and speeches in favor of receding by Speaker Crisp, Chairman Wilson and others, it was decided to take the senate bill and immediately afterwards pass separate bills placing coal, iron ore, sugar and barbed wire on the free list.

The program arranged in the caucus was carried out to the letter in the house under an ironclad special order. The scenes in the chamber throughout the day and even in the night were exciting and at times sensational. The galleries were packed and the members applauded their respective leaders to the echo.

The result summed up is: The house accepted the senate bill, 182 to 103.
Passed the free sugar bill, 176 to 11.
Passed the free coal bill, 160 to 104.
Passed the free iron bill, 163 to 103.
Passed the free barbed wire bill, 187 to 84.

Dived to Death.
PROVIDENCE, Aug. 13.—James W. Gorman, manager of a West show, that is now playing at Crescent park, was in bathing and while diving from the wharf, struck his head against a pile that was just beneath the water. He lived but a few minutes. Gorman was 40 years old, and was well known in theatrical circles.

Had Another Man's Horse.
NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 13.—A man giving the name of Fred Harlow was arrested here while trying to get a loan on a horse and carriage. It was ascertained that the team was owned by a Norwich livery man. Harlow was taken to Norwich last evening to answer to a charge of horse stealing.

Body Identified.
WALTHAM, Mass., Aug. 14.—The body found in the Cambridge reservoir was identified as that of Arthur J. Cummings of Dorchester. The deceased had left the Boston city hospital last week, where he had been sick for some time. He probably committed suicide while mentally deranged.

Forgotten Vermonters.
WINDSOR, Vt., Aug. 16.—The Democratic ticket in Caledonia county will have no opposition, as opponents forgot to file nominations, as prescribed by law. The Republican tickets in Windsor and Windsor are also unopposed, as their opponents also neglected to file nominations.

A "Rumor" Only.
YOKOHAMA, Aug. 16.—A rumor has reached here of an important naval engagement between Japanese and Chinese fleets off Wei-Hai-Wei on Aug. 10. Seven Chinese vessels belonging to the northern squadron were sunk, according to the report.

A Double Ceremony.
ALBION, R. I., Aug. 15.—The Roman Catholic church here was dedicated yesterday. The ceremony was under the direction of Vicar of the service the new Catholic cemetery was consecrated.

Westerly's Pride.
WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 16.—The new public library building, erected as a memorial to the late Stephen Wilcox, was dedicated yesterday. The building and furnishings cost $100,000. The presentation was made by Mrs. Wilcox.

Wellman Again Heard From.
TROMSØ, Norway, Aug. 16.—Walter Wellman and party arrived here from the Arctic regions, where their steamer Reginald Jarl was recently crushed in the ice, compelling them to abandon their attempt to reach the North Pole.

Fractured Skull Caused Death.
BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 15.—Miss Jennie Haight, aged 18, an artist of this city, who sustained a fractured skull in a runaway accident, died last night of her injuries.

WEATHER-CROP BULLETIN.

Report of the Agricultural Bureau for the Week Ending Aug. 13.

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—Following is the weather-crop bulletin for the past week, issued by the New England weather service:

There is some complaint of a want of rain in northern and eastern Maine this week, one correspondent in Aroostook county saying that on light land potatoes are at a standstill. Generally, this crop promises well, and the warm days and cool nights of the week are favorable for them, serving to check or hold off the rust.

Light showers have fallen during the week over most of New Hampshire, but throughout all central counties much more moisture is needed for the proper development of field crops of all kinds. The pastures are reported as feeling the want of rain as much as anything now. There is little feed and cows are shrinking badly.

There is some complaint of a lack of rain in the northern part of Vermont, but generally crops are growing very well. Corn is pushing ahead. In the south it has a heavy growth and is reported to be generally well cared. In southern counties the potato crops appear greener and more luxuriant than common, but there are few potatoes in the hills; there are some pieces damaged by blight or rust, but it is not general and only slight as yet.

Conditions of drought continue in southern and all western-central and western Massachusetts. Pastures are drying badly and flow of milk is shortening. In Hampden county there is a large growth of corn, and the ears are generally set well.

Good showers have fallen in Rhode Island and eastern Connecticut during the week, and the crops are much improved. Corn, especially, is pushing ahead fast, though some pieces are permanently injured and will not ear as well as usual.

A Bad Smashup.
LEBANON, N. H., Aug. 16.—A railroad collision occurred at East Lebanon yesterday afternoon. The noon mail train was temporarily stalled, when a freight train crashed into it with terrific force. The freight was drawn by two 10-wheel locomotives. Both were badly damaged. Four freight cars were telescoped and two passenger cars smashed. Baggage-master Douglas was instantly killed. Brakenham Stearns was probably fatally injured. A passenger on the rear platform of the passenger car shouted, "Jump for your lives," but for which many lives would probably have been lost, as the car was demolished.

Growers Elect Officers.
PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 15.—The annual meeting of the New England Retail Grocers' association was held in this city yesterday. 3300 shares being represented. The election resulted as follows: President, E. D. Wood, Boston; vice president, W. I. Williams, Providence; clerk, E. L. Dyer, Portland, Me.; assistant clerk, M. A. Stone, Reading, Mass.; treasurer, A. F. Carpenter, Somerville, Mass.; editor, A. C. Dows, Boston; assistant manager, W. H. Bosworth, Boston.

Robbery Alleged.
BIDDEFORD, Me., Aug. 14.—Henry W. Lash, proprietor of the Gorham House at Old Orchard, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Goldthwaite yesterday on the charge of robbing Henry Tice of Boston of $1700. The robbery is said to have been committed two weeks ago. Tice ran a faro bank at the Gorham House, and had left the money in his trunk while he went in bathing. Lash has been locked up in Saco jail.

No Strike at Present.
FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 14.—Action taken by the textile amalgamation last night practically prevents all chance of a strike by cotton mill operatives here for the present. The leaders argued that a strike must result in a failure for the strikers. Resolutions were unanimously adopted advising the unions to accept the reduction for the present. The unions will in all probability accept the resolution.

Friends Say It Was Accidental.
NEW HAVEN, Aug. 14.—Mrs. Ellsworth Maltby, the wife of a New York broker, who yesterday shot herself, died last night at the home of her mother-in-law in Fair Haven, Conn. The members of the Maltby family claim that the shooting was purely accidental, and after making an investigation Medical Examiner White rendered such a decision. There is a belief, however, that suicide was intended.

Gratifying Results.
OLD ORCHARD, Me., Aug. 13.—The Christian Alliance convention held its final meetings yesterday. The audience showed itself in touch with the doctrines expounded by pledging $40,000 in aid of foreign missions during the coming year. Several candidates who had been healed and anointed during the convention received baptism in the waves of the Atlantic.

To Strike on Monday.
NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 16.—The Spinners' union of this city voted last night to institute a general strike Monday morning unless the manufacturers recede from their determination to reduce the wages. Nearly 400 spinners were present at the meeting, which lasted about two hours. During that period the wage question was discussed in all its phases.

Policeman Arrested.
SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 16.—People here last night enjoyed the spectacle of the captain of the police force leading a drunken policeman through the streets to the police station. The latter was Dayton W. Robinson. At the station the policeman was made to take off his uniform and go home. It is expected that Robinson will resign.

Users of Sign Language.
WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 14.—The New England Gallaudet association, composed of deaf mutes, held its biennial session here yesterday. Mayor Marsh made an address of welcome. Papers were read on subjects of interest to deaf mutes by various delegates.

Women Can't Vote.
ALBANY, Aug. 16.—The adverse report of the suffrage committee of the constitutional convention on the proposition to allow the question of woman suffrage to go to the people was agreed to last night. This kills the appeal for female suffrage.

Died in Jail.
PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 15.—Bernard McCafferty, sentenced last September to two years in jail for being concerned in a Maine Central mileage ticket robbery, died yesterday at the jail from neuralgia.

On a Fractured Skull.
NEW HAVEN, Aug. 15.—The United States marshal at Albany today took on 100 members of the Connecticut naval reserves for practice drill in Gardiner's bay.

Allen's Sarsaparilla!

READ IT AND FURTHER PROOF OF THE EFFICACY OF THIS REMEDY.

A Guarantee that Guarantees!!!

A Remedy that Cures!!!

Here's Proof that It Cures Blood Trouble and Constipation.

We frequently hear people say that a guarantee don't amount to anything. However that may be with other preparations, it amounts to just this with Allen's Sarsaparilla, every bottle has a guarantee label near the bottom. If no benefit is derived by the time it is taken down to this label, it can be returned to us, according to directions on the label and we will refund the full price; provided it is taken regularly and according to directions, and for the diseases for which we recommend it, and provided it is not purchased at a discount from the retail price. No remedy without wonderful properties, and sold at so low a price, could be guaranteed under these terms. We are convinced by our experience and by the strong testimonials that are constantly pouring in, that we are perfectly safe in guaranteeing Allen's Sarsaparilla.

F. E. LANDERS, of Benton Falls, Me., writes:—I had a severe kidney trouble, and could not straighten up or walk. I was advised to take Sarsaparilla. I took two well-known kinds but got no benefit and was at last induced to try Allen's. I took two bottles and am today a well man. I am now able to do a hard day's work in the pulp mill every day, and have no signs of a return of my old trouble, nor do I expect to. I would advise anybody troubled with kidney disease to give Allen's Sarsaparilla a good trial. It saved my life.

Miss Josie Wilson of South Walpole, Mass., writes:—I have been troubled for a number of years with a terrible disease called eczema. My face was a terrible sight, all red blotches. I tried everything and was on the point of giving up in despair, when someone recommended Allen's Sarsaparilla, and I have only used one bottle and my face is almost well, and there are no pimples on it at all now. I cannot speak too highly of it, and have recommended it to a great many of my friends who now have great faith in it. I shall get some more and keep on using it as I know it is doing me good.

F. E. GILMAN of Lexington, Mass., writes:—I had an internal abscess and was confined to my bed five weeks; was completely prostrated and worn out with pain. I commenced taking your Sarsaparilla and found my strength coming back, and after taking two bottles consider myself well. I take pleasure in recommending your Sarsaparilla to all my friends and to the public. My wife has also taken it for consumption, and considers it the best of any Sarsaparilla.

Funeral services were held in St. Michael's church yesterday morning at 9 o'clock. Messrs. Patrick Costello, Oliver Costello, James McEvoy and Patrick Keegan served as bearers. Interment in Lawrence.

Commissioners hear from Abutters.

The question of making our main street a uniform width of 60 feet has progressed another stage. County Commissioners Bishop, Smith, and Danforth gave the abutters, or such of them as would in any way be affected by the improvement, and the citizens generally an opportunity to be heard in the matter, both as to the desirability of the change and also on the matter of damages. Hon. N. P. Frye represented and spoke for the petitioners in behalf of the petitioners. The petition was read and afterward the plan was explained by Engineer Hale.

To obtain the desired width of 60 feet it would be necessary to take property from the following, the damages to property being computed from the value set upon the same by the owners, in most cases:

Kelley, 122 sq. ft. or about 2 ft., $16.80; Laing, 228 sq. ft. or about 4 ft., $34.20; Daniels, 371 sq. ft. or about 5 ft., $37.10; McKone, 605 sq. ft. or about 6 ft., $190.75; Morris Murphy, 630 sq. ft. or about 5.3 ft., $106; Morton, 197 sq. ft. or about 3.1 ft., $19.70; Hodges, 701 sq. ft. or about 7 ft., $70.10; Parley, 198 sq. ft. or about 4.1 ft., $39.60; Davis & Furber tenement, 77 sq. ft. or about 1.1 ft., $15.40; Carleton, 192 sq. ft. or about 3 ft., $38.40; Frye, 424 sq. ft. or about 8.1 ft., $65.10; Reagan, Water Street, 70 sq. ft. or about 1.1 ft., $17.50.

NORTH SIDE.

Selectmen's office set back about 15 ft.; A. P. Ellis, 301 sq. ft. or about 15 ft., $30.10; Smith, 2529 sq. ft. or about 25 ft., $500; John Murphy, 375 sq. ft. or about 5 ft., $75; McDonald, 375 sq. ft. or about 5 ft., $75; Costello, 275 sq. ft. or about 3 ft., $27.50; Sutton, 404 sq. ft., $40.40. The damages taken at the abutters' figures from Elm and Water Streets to Sutton's Corner would reach about $2,300. To lay out the lower main Street from Ellis' Corner to Sutton's Corner 60 feet wide the damages would figure about $1800; the same 53 feet, about $1000.

Road Commissioners Poor and Cheney were inclined to favor the width of 52 feet, while Commissioner Gile favored at least a width of 60 feet between the points named. Mr. Charles Morton favored the 60 feet plan; Messrs. A. P. Ellis, Edwin Parley, H. B. Ellis, Frank McKone favored a 50 feet road. Later, in order to get at the sense of those interested 11 of the 18 present favored the width of 60 feet, none favoring the 50 feet plan.

Chairman Bishop was in doubt as to whether the county would allow the entire amount of damages. They might allow a proportional part and the town do the rest. The claims for damages were much larger than they expected would be the case.

Mr. Frye spoke upon that matter, and said that the claims of the abutters were exorbitant; there was no such value in any of the land as was claimed by them, his own land included. He hoped the Commissioners would allow the entire amount of damages, to be paid by the county and that in awarding the damages would use their own judgment and not take the outrageous figures mentioned by the abutters.

The Commissioners closed the hearing and will further consider the matter.

The County Commissioners are to issue an amendment to their decree in order to allow a slight change in an angle of the Sutton Street improvement.

Police Court.

In Police Court, Saturday morning, the case of Robert Kershaw vs. John Carey for assault and battery was heard.

Mr. Kershaw, Mrs. Glennie and Miss Lilly Glennie testified to the fact that Carey, on the evening of the 4th, sprang upon the plaintiff as he was riding along the road near his house and threw him from his bicycle. The defense was a general denial, Carey and his wife claiming that he was run into by Kershaw. As a result of summing up the evidence the Court imposed a fine of $5 upon Carey which he paid.

The case of John Woods vs. John Meserve for trespass was next in order. Mr. Meserve was represented by Attorney Peters of Haverhill. On the 3rd of August, Mr. Meserve and others were alleged to have been found in the Wood's pasture picking berries, in consequence of which the complaint was made. Mr. Meserve had obtained permission to enter the Foster pasture and by some mistake got into the wrong one, and upon being notified of the fact left the premises. On motion of the counsel for the defendant, the complaint, which was allowed to be defective, was quashed.

"Sons of Brave Sires."

In an extended historical review entitled the "Sons of Brave Sires" the Sunday Globe published an excellent likeness of our well known and esteemed townsman, Mr. James A. Montgomery, together with a brief notice of his family history. The article was as follows:

One of the few remaining sons of revolutionary soldiers is James Montgomery, a thrifty, upright farmer, a native and, with the exception of about 11 months, a life-long resident of North Andover. He was born March 13, 1817, and with a sister, Mrs. Catherine Fogg of Andover, Me., now in her 81st year, is the only representative of a family of nine children.

He has seen no active service in martial struggles of our country, but in 1835, when about 18 years of age, enlisted and "trained" in the Andover artillery, under his brother, Capt. John Montgomery, who was afterward colonel of the regiment. Mr. Montgomery received a lieutenant's commission. Fifty-four years ago, he was married to Miss Salome Day of Bradford, and together they are journeying toward the golden sunset. Mr. Montgomery has for several years been prominently connected with Cochebick lodge of Masons.

His grandfather, John Montgomery, was of Scotch-Irish descent, and as an emigrant, came to Londonderry, N. H., and settled, establishing himself as a weaver. While here he married the daughter of Col. George Knox, and subsequently moved to Andover, and located at the point—so called—on the banks of the historic Merrimack river.

During the war of the revolution he received from congress the sum of $40 and a diamond ring, as a premium for weaving the finest and best linen for the ruffles and cuffs of Gen. Washington and the officers of his army.

The ring is now preserved for its historical worth and is in possession of Mrs. Mary Pratt, Baskin's Bridge, N. Y. June 2, 1778, at the age of 40 years, John Montgomery enlisted as a private in Capt. Johnson's company at Andover, and served nine months in Col. Samuel Johnson's 4th Essex regiment.

Alexander Montgomery, son of John and father of James A. Montgomery, at the age of 17 years enlisted at the same time and continued nine months in the service of the Continental army. He also enlisted June 22, 1780, for a term of three months as a private in Capt. Abbott's company, Andover, in Col. Wade's regiment, which was on duty at West Point.

At the very time when the traitor Arnold made his escape after betraying his country's cause to the enemy, private Montgomery, with others, was on guard, and saw Arnold when he left the lines, and was but a short distance away when he entered the waiting bateau, wrapped the mantle of disgrace about him, and disappeared forever from the view of his soldiery.

About four years ago Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery celebrated their golden wedding. To-day both are in their usual state of health and their friends in the community heartily desire that the lease of life may be happily extended many years.

WHAT A CANNON BALL CAN DO.

Chance Shot in the Chilean War That Went Through Ironclads.

In dwelling upon the wonderful power of the guns of the Indiana, Albert Franklin, Matthews, in an article on "The Evolution of a Battleship" in The Century, gives illustrations from the recent Chilean civil war, showing the effectiveness of the smaller sizes of breechloading rifle guns.

A shot weighing 250 pounds from an 8 inch gun of Fort Valdivia in Valparaiso harbor struck the cruiser Blanco Encalada above the armor belt, passed through the thin steel plate on the side, went through the captain's cabin, took the pillow from under his head, dropped his head on the mattress with a thump, but without injuring a hair, passed through the open door into the mess-room, where it struck the floor and then glanced to the ceiling. Then it went through a wooden bulkhead an inch thick into a room 35 by 42 feet, where 40 men were sleeping in hammocks. It killed six of them outright and wounded six others, three of whom died, after which it passed through a steel bulkhead 5 inches thick and ended its course by striking a battery outside, in which it made a dent nearly two inches deep. It was filled with sand. Had it released deadly gases no one knows what damage it might have done.

A 450 pound missile from a 10 inch gun in the same fort struck the same vessel on its 8 inch armor. It hit square on a bolt. The shell did not pierce the armor, but burst outside the vessel. It drove the bolt clear through, and in its flight the bolt struck an 8 inch gun, completely disabling it. Such is the power of the smaller sized guns.

LONDON'S WATER SUPPLY.

Economy in Its Use as Compared With American Experiences.

In London, the largest city in the world, the water is furnished by companies and is charged for by the quantity. No one has a free faucet or can afford to waste his water. Every family bargains for as many gallons per diem as it needs, and this amount is placed in tanks. Then the water is shut off. If the family uses it up by noon, it gets no more until the next day unless it can borrow of its neighbor. There is no waste. The water is all measured and paid for. With three times our population London does not use one-third as much water as Chicago does, simply because the water is not wasted.

In Chicago the city furnishes the water, and every one is free to do with it what he pleases, and the result is anarchy in water. The man on the third story has no rights the man on the second is bound to respect, and the man on the first floor cheats both of them by running water via the sewers into the river and lake. So long as there is disregard of human rights by human hogs this waste will continue, and those on the upper stories will suffer because those on lower stories are running water all day to cool their rooms or to flood their lawns—in other words, are letting millions of gallons run into the sewers without being used at all.—Chicago Tribune.

Beginning to See the Point.

"What have you to say to this charge of assaulting Michael Rafferty?" asked the judge.

"O'licked 'im," replied Mr. Dolan, looking the court in the eye. "An wid no disrespect to anybody, it's hopin' O' am that O' done it good."

"Was there any provocation?"

"They wor thot same."

"What was it?"

"O' have a goat, yer anner—a foine animal too. 'Does yer goat give milk?' says Rafferty to me. 'It does,' says O'. 'Thin,' says he, 'it's buttermilk.' 'It's as swate an foine as any ye iver saw,' says O'. 'Certainly, but it is butter-milk,' says he, an thin we came together. Though O' must say, yer anner, thot when O' come to repate it over a few times an consider the nature av the goat O'm compelled to say O' wor a bit haasty. Bedad, if the court'll give me lave, O'll 'pologize to Rafferty, so. O' will."—Washington Star.
